Input, Interaction, Implementation

This morning session will be conducted as follows:

Input from thought leaders

- Two high-impact 30-minute presentations by Thought Leaders, providing an introduction and context for the conversations of the morning.
- Two 15-minute case studies with a Q and A session.

Interaction between speakers and delegates

- The two speakers and an independent thought leader answer questions from the delegates about the presentations (facilitated by Alan Hosking).
- A Fishbowl conversation with three highly skilled facilitators guiding and assisting delegates in a discussion on redefining leadership for success and sustainability into the future.

Implementation ideas to take away

- All conversations will be illustrated by an artist, and delegates will receive a copy of the illustrations of practical ideas that emerge during the conversations. These can then be used as memory prompts should you wish to implement them in your company.

Engage in conversation with Thought Leaders and other HR Directors and build your legacy!

It's become clear from research that only 27% of companies' leaders are equipped to lead their organisations into the future. Who in the executive team is responsible for ensuring a company's leaders have what's necessary to take the business forward with competence and confidence?

Is it the CEO, the FD or the Marketing Director? No ... It's the HR Director!

In an increasingly disruptive and uncertain workplace, there are no rule books to tell you how to do this. But none of us is as smart as all of us.

And so, HR Future is hosting a morning SolutionsFest exclusively for HR Directors at Leaderex to enlighten and inspire them with ideas from the future.

Through a combination of short, high impact presentations and a series of strategic conversations with Thought Leaders and peers you will explore and unpack ways of ensuring that your leaders have what it takes to lead your company and its people into a better future.

These conversations will give you innovative ideas, new direction and fresh perspectives regarding the needs of companies and their leaders and what they need to thrive in the future.

Apart from input from Thought Leaders, you will be one of the speakers at this event as you engage with your fellow HR Directors in facilitated conversations. You will find out what you can do to make the shift from old thinking about leadership to new thinking. You will discover why and how leaders need to leave the orchestra and join jazz band!

You have probably never been to an event like this. If you're an HR Director, HR Executive or Head of HR, this highly focused half-day event is just for you.

Please join us and build your legacy by contributing to the conversation on the day. You will also leave with a bundle of solutions to the challenges you're facing!
