WHY ATTEND?

A certain amount of stress contributes to high performance but, when it is excessive, it drastically reduces productivity. This one-day Masterclass addresses Stress in the morning session and Motivation in the afternoon session.

STRESS: In a unique approach to stress, this session reduces stress to two major causes and helps delegates to identify which one is causing their stress. Once they can do this, they are in a powerful position to manage their stress effectively and continue working at peak efficiency. Find out what the two fundamental causes of stress are and learn how to manage them for maximum performance.

MOTIVATION: This session reveals and unpacks the three deepest needs that drive every human on the planet, regardless of who they are and explains what actually motivates people on a long term basis. As delegates are shown how to tap into these forces, they discover an unexpected source of motivation that is not affected by outer conditions. Learn what really motivates you and how to tap into that for endless energy and great results.
